

Editorial

Things have been difficult for the past year with the global pandemic, but with better understanding of the disease and the efficient management, both at government and public level, we look better prepared and slowly returning to normalcy. We are finally open for all forms of treatment, off course with caution. Cheers!!

On behalf of our editorial team, I am glad to present the Journal of Nepalese Prosthodontic Society (JNPS) Volume 4, Number 2. The journal established in 2018 has now published 8 issues, including this latest offering. Through these initial years of our publication, we hope we have been able to provide a platform to share innovation, research and ideas not only to our fellow prosthodontists but to our budding undergraduates and postgraduate students likewise.

Finally, I would like to thank the editors, anonymous reviewers, our valuable readers and contributors/authors for their continuous support and encouragement.

Thank you.
